- All Saints ensures that all those who are involved in the recruitment process have been suitably trained to identify and assess the relevance and circumstances of offences

E1. Interviews

The panel should make sure they respond to any expressed support needs of the candidate
The interview panel should be made up of a diverse group – 3 or 4 should generally be sufficient

Interview should be timetabled for each candidate.

Questions should be prepared in advance by the interview panel and should relate to the job description and person specification

No questions should be asked of a personal nature e.g. how will you look after your children?

All candidates should be asked the same questions

Supplementary questions should only be asked to encourage a more complete answer or develop any ideas raised by the candidate.

Questions may be asked around explore aspects of the CV/application form

Panel members should make notes of answers.

A scoring system should be agreed before the interview

Recruitment and Selection Procedures

Employment principles

All Saints Community Development Company
All Saints Community Projects
All Saints Parish Church
All Saints Community Catering
The Robin Centre

Scores should be set for each question

Candidates can be scored on other attributes around the ps but not best judged through questions e.g. communication skills, body language, confidence level.

An overall score for appointment should be set. It shouldn't just be the highest scorer as they might not score enough to convince you they can do the job.

If needed panel members can discuss what they expect to get from an answer before the interviews.

Panel members should be allocated the questions they will ask. These should be the same for each candidate

The chair should introduce the panel members, explain the process and put the candidate at ease

Panel members should interview in a way that gets the best out of the candidate and not be frightening and intimidating.

Panel members should have empathy with the candidate's nervousness

At the end of the interview candidates should be told the interview is over and should be asked:

Do they have any questions for the panel?

Can they confirm they have the right to work in this country?

Have they disclosed everything on the self-disclosure/DBS section of the application form? If they disclose more information this should be recorded on the application form (this can be done in private with the chair, if this is appropriate). It is important to emphasize to the candidate that non-disclosure of anything that may appear on their DBS check could result in a job offer being withdrawn.

Possible start date.

None of the above should affect the results of the interview at this point.

When the candidate leaves then each panel member should fill in their scores. They should not discuss the candidate at this point.

When all candidates have left then the scores should be totalled and shared. If there are major differences between scores of individual panel members these should be discussed and altered if appropriate. Any alteration should be initialled.

If there are candidates with equal scores then answers to individual questions should be looked at, particularly questions that are considered more important for the job.

In the event of a non-resolvable tie then candidates should be re-interviewed.

Candidates should be offered feedback on their interview

Candidates should be informed of the results as soon as possible. For those who didn't get the job this can be a phone call or a letter. For those who did get the job this can be a phone call followed by an offer letter.

All paperwork should be kept on file for 12 months then shredded. The successful candidate's paperwork should be kept in their employee's file.

E2. Presentations and tests

If setting presentations and tests these should be planned in advance and candidates should receive clear information about them.

Recruitment and Selection Procedures

They should be consistent for each candidate and include details of how they will be scored. The results of the tests and presentation should be available at the end of the interviews

E3. Meeting relevant people

If candidates are going to meet people as part of the selection process you should be clear about what these people will be looking for and how feedback will be given. If this happens at a separate time to the interviews a decision should not be made until this feedback is received.

F. References and checks

F.1. References

All application forms include details of 3 referees. If these are not filled in in full then the candidate should not be interviewed. One of the references should be the candidate's last employer. If it is not, then candidate should be asked why they didn't put the last employer and the reason noted on the application form. There will need to be a judgement made about whether this reason is valid or not.

All referees should be contacted and references received in writing. If the job involves working with children or vulnerable adults the referee should be informed of this and asked to comment specifically on this aspect of the job on a safeguarding reference form. A job description should be sent with the reference request. Candidates are entitled to see their references if they wish and referees should be informed of this. References should be put in the employee's file. The candidate should not start work until the references are returned. It is possible to ring the referees and get an initial reference, notes should be made of their answer, but written references should always be sought. The safeguarding reference form can be received by e-mail if scanned into the computer and attached. E-mail job references are only acceptable if the referee lives outside of the UK.

F.2. DBS

If the job requires a DBS, then this should be sought through the DBS coordinator/ID verifier. The candidate can start work before the DBS arrives but must not work unsupervised. The DBS requirement should appear on the job advert and application form. DBS s are paid for by the organisation.

F.3. Entitlement to work and confirmation of ID

Candidates should be asked to bring confirmation of id to the interview and this should be marked on the application form.

If the candidate is not a UK citizen (or a citizen of another European Union country) then they will need to show proof of right to work, this should be noted on the application form.

Note ; this may change at the end of 2020

G. Offer letter

Recruitment and Selection Procedures
Employment principles

All Saints Community Development Company
All Saints Community Projects

All Saints Community Catering

An offer letter should be sent to candidates within a week of the interviews. This should include a prospective start day pending references, the agreed salary, the probationary period, the name of their line manager and information about the DBS process.

H. Post offer

H.1. Probationary periods

Employees should have a minimum of 3 months probationary period. During this time if there are any issues, they should be stated on the supervision notes. If the staff member seems likely to fail their probationary period, they should be informed of this during supervision. If the employee doesn't pass their probationary period then they should be informed of this, with reasons, verbally and in writing.

If the person has a disability then any reasonable changes to support them should be discussed and agreed

The point of the probationary period is to ensure that the appointment is the correct person for the job. It is important to use it properly.

H.2. Induction (see Supervision and support policy)

Staff employment principles

Although people are employed through different organisations, they are all part of the All Saints family.

All Saints aims to be a good employer and to treat its employees with respect, fairness, understanding and care.

It is important to consult the policies and employee's handbook to ensure that you are following good practice.

It is the commitment of All Saints not to pay any employee below Living Wage Foundation living wage.

Cost of living rises, and incremental rises should be considered in any funding application.

Notwithstanding the aim to give Living wage no rises should be given if there are budgetary problems either current or in the future cash flow- this could potentially be seen as reckless.

Although we wish to be open and transparent all board members should be aware that some issues around employees are of a confidential nature
